HE who cares nothing about his ancestors will rarely achieve anything worthy of being remembered by his descendants. In treasuring up the memorials of the fathers, we best manifest our regard for posterity.”—Rev. Abner Morse, A. M.

“When we see a long list of ancestors so ancient they have no beginning, so worthy that they ought to have no end, we feel an interest in all their fortunes; nor can we blame the generous enthusiasm or harmless vanity of those who are allied to the honors of the name.”—Gibbon.

Another writer says: “No virtuously disposed mind can look back upon a long line of truly venerable ancestors without feeling his motive to a virtuous life strengthened. He can scarcely help feeling that it is not for him to be the first to bring disgrace upon his lineage. It will, moreover, lead him to reflect that his posterity also will be looking back and comparing his life with that of his progenitors.”

Let me but do my work from day to day,
In field or forest, at desk or loom,
In roaring market place or tranquil room;
Let me but find it in my heart to say,
When vagrant wishes beckon me astray:
“This is my work, my blessing, not my doom;
Of all who live, I am the one by whom
This work can best be done in my own way.”
Then shall I see it not too great nor small,
To suit my spirit and to prove my powers;
Then shall I cheerfully greet the laboring hours,
And cheerful turn when the long shadows fall
At eventide, to play and love and rest,
Because I know for me my work is best.

—Henry Van Dyke.

Something difficult is simply something to overcome.

“When a man has done what he can, and as well as he can, he has done as much as any one could do, for where there is little capacity great results will not be expected.”—Erasmus Wilson.

PREFATORY

THE WILLIAM BROWN FAMILY OF AMERICA.

William Brown and Christiana Thompson Brown, with their children, came to America, landing in Philadelphia in 1772. Following the route of Braddock's Army they reached their destination in Western Pennsylvania.

In this genealogical compilation we call the head of the first family that came to this country the first generation. We made no attempt to trace the ancestry back through the generations in Scotland, their native country. Margaret, daughter of William Brown the first, gave the only reliable history obtainable of her father's family. She said that all of her brothers and sisters were born in Scotland. We know that Anna, the youngest child of the family, was not more than ten years of age when they landed in America. This would seem to indicate that we were mistaken when we assumed that we were of Scotch-Irish ancestry. William the first may have lived in the north of Ireland for a short time, but we have no proof of it. Certainly he was not entitled to be called Scotch-Irish. William Creighton White says that his mother, who was a daughter of William Brown the second, told him that her father was called "Billy Brown, the Scotchman." William McCamish Hays, whose mother was a sister of the wife of William Brown the second, told the writer that the Browns came from Scotland. Robert McCaslin, with his family came to Philadelphia on the ship that brought the William Brown family over. Doctor William Alfred McCaslin, to whom not only the compiler, but all of his people are greatly indebted for his untiring and successful labor in gathering family records, says that the name of McCaslin (McCausland) has been traced back in history perhaps to the first settlement of the north of Ireland by the Scotch. The Doctor thinks that his branch came to America direct from Ireland. We think it probable that the Browns and Murrays, if not neighbors in Scotland, were at least acquaintances. They came over in the same vessel, settled or at least lived for some time in the Scotch settlement in what is now Washington County, Pennsylvania, near the line between that county and Allegheny County, not far from the Monongahela and Youghiogheny Rivers. The home of William Brown the first was on Peter's Creek; he is buried at Peter's Creek Presbyterian Churchyard.

After the death of William Brown the first, his wife lived the remainder of her days with her daughter Margaret and husband Samuel Barber, at their Turtle Creek home. She was buried at Beulah Presbyterian Churchyard.

The eldest child of William the first, was George. When the writer was about ten years of age, he remembers visiting at the homes of this branch of the Browns. When he arrived there George was at the house of his son John. To find the father who was about 88 years of age and the son who was about 68 years of age both living, was something to be remembered. Their houses were but a short distance apart. Some of their descendants live on the land where their ancestors settled about 1794. George and his wife, Mary Glass Brown, are both buried at Middlesex Presbyterian Churchyard.

The second child of William the first, was William. He was the grandfather of the compiler of these records. A most diligent search has failed to find dates of his birth or death. His wife was Mary McCamish (McKimish); they are both buried at Middlesex Presbyterian Churchyard. He settled on a large tract of land adjoining that of his only brother George.

John McCamish and wife, with their three daughters and one son also landed in Philadelphia, probably from Ireland. Whether they came on the vessel that brought the Browns over cannot now be ascertained. The father and son both died in Philadelphia. Mary McCamish married William Brown the second, Jane McCamish married Mr. Clendening, Sarah married George Hays, who settled in Butler County, Pennsylvania, about 1794. They were the parents of William McCamish Hays, who told the writer the story of their troubles in Ireland, during the troublous times of the religious contentions between the Protestants and Catholics. The McCamish family were strong Protestants. During one of the riots there, one of the McCamish girls found herself among the rioters. At the time she carried one of the children in her arms—probably her child brother. Being able to speak the Irish language she was supposed to be a Catholic and got safely through the mob. This is the only reason we have for thinking that this family lived in Ireland. The mother, after the marriage of all of her daughters, lived among the Hays people.

The third child of William the first, was Christiana—on her tomb stone the name is spelled "Christinah." She married Andrew * McCaslin. They were both ~~about~~ 14 years of age in 1772, when they came to America. She died November 19, 1830, he July 8, 1830. They are buried at the Middlesex Presbyterian Churchyard.

They settled on a tract of land near Glade Mills, Butler County, Pa., probably between 1794 and 1800. It was the home of their decendants continuously until the death of their youngest child in 1879.

Note.—To prevent confusion in relationship, it is necessary to record the fact that Robert? McCaslin and wife, with their three boys, named Andrew, James and John, came to America with the Brown family. Our compilation has to do only with Andrew. His brother James also settled but a few miles from the home of Andrew. Some of his decendants live in the vicinity yet, if not at the old home.

Doctor McCaslin reasons that the name of the elder McCaslin was Robert? because it was the custom to name the oldest grandson for the grandfather, few records of the first and second generations can be found.

The fourth child of William the first, was Margaret. She married Samuel Barber. Nothing appears to be known of his antecedents now, but we do know that he was held in high esteem by all of our people. They lived first in the Brown vicinity, afterwards bought 50 acres of land on Turtle Creek Hill, where they lived the remainder of their days. They are both buried at Beulah Churchyard. They had no children of their own, but adopted George Brown, son of William the second, and Jane Koots, who afterwards married and lived the remainder of their days at that home. They are buried at Beulah Churchyard. They inherited the property and left it an inheritance to their children. It is yet the home of their only surviving child, Sarah Ann Brown Jeffrey.

By moving to Turtle Creek the Barbers probably escaped the ferocity of the Indians and wolves, but at once encountered the "land grabbers." So detestable were these characters that it would scarcely be an exaggeration to say, by comparison, they made the Indians and wolves seem respectable. A few years previous to Aunt Jennie Brown's death, she told me of one of the schemes of two of the "grabbers." The Barbers intended building their first house near the only spring available. The spring was near the line between the Barber's and another land.. At that time lines were not very definitely defined. An honest friend or neighbor of the Barbers overheard the "grabbers" planning to induce them to place the structure just off their own land, the Barbers supposing they would be still on their own ground. The honest friend broke in on their deliberations, and the language he used to the poltroons would not look well in print. The house was not built at that point, but a safe distance from the dividing line, and is there yet. Of course, the "grabbers" intended to "grab" the house.

The fifth and youngest child of William the first, was Anna Brown. She married Neil Murray. Owing to the fact that the old home was destroyed by fire after their death, none of their records can now be found. By deduction we can only approximate the dates of their birth and death. Neil Murray was about 20 years of age in 1772. Anna Brown was not more than 10 years of age at that time.

Among the Murray decendants there is a well verified tradition that Neil wanted his father to give him an island off the shores of Scotland, called, at that time Murray Island, now called Mooray Island. They did not agree about the matter, so Neil came to America and from the first was loyal to his chosen country. He was an educated Scotchman and had never done a day's work up to that time, and yet he and Anna established a home in the vicinity of the Brown settlement in Butler County, Pa., which it was the delight of our people to visit. We do not know whether Neil Murray was a soldier of the Revolution or not, but we do know that he was captain of a company in the War of 1812.

Little more can now be recorded in the form of biography, of the first and second generations. While family records were kept by our people, they consisted chiefly of date of birth, name, and date of death; date of marriage was rarely recorded. We are unable to find any records of the first generation. With the passing of the third generation even the voice of tradition is almost silenced. We will have to be content with knowing that our ancestors were people of the highest character, loyal to their families, their religion, and to their country.

Some years previous to 1800 the Browns, Harbisons, McCaslins and Murrays bought lands near the northern line of Allegheny County and the southern line of Butler County, Pa. This neighborhood became the homes of the second generation—except the Barbers—also the homes of the third, although some of the latter moved to the then far West. Many of their descendants are there yet and have known no other home. The compiler has a fair knowledge of their lives and feels justified in saying that they have brought no disgrace upon their lineage.

William Brown, of the second generation, was by trade a stonemason. Some of the Murrays of the third were also stonemasons. There is no doubt but they at least superintended the quarrying the stone, dressed them and built them into structures. They were men of good character, had common sense, brains and mechanical ingenuity. There were no trade unions in those days to dictate the price a freeman should pay for material and labor, and no botch work.

Some of the Harbisons were wheelwrights; some of the McCaslins were millwrights. There is no doubt but that they hewed the timbers, framed and built the structure, put in the machinery and operated the mills. The wheelwrights made the wagons, the looms and spinning wheels. My father was a wheelwright. I do not remember him at all, but my Uncle James Douglass, when I was a small boy, pointed to a wagon he was using and said, "that wagon was made by your father, and is a good, well made, easy running wagon." Coming from my uncle, I thought it a great compliment.

Probably the dominant motive of our ancestors in coming to America, was to gratify the natural desire to own and cultivate land. For this they crossed the ocean, braved the Indians and wolves, and took up the hard life of the pioneer farmer. Even the mechanics combined farming with their trades. In the present age a large majority of our people are farmers. Of late years I have visited the homes of many of them and can say that they are good farmers, and highly respected in the communities in which they live.

Now, what can we say that will convey our conception of our mothers, grandmothers and aunts—they who bore without complaint the heaviest burdens, made the greatest sacrifices; the first to hasten to the bedside of the sick, and with tender care smooth the pillow of the dying—and often care for the orphan. We can at least make a record of their virtues, and pay them the homage of grateful hearts.

The Browns, McCaslins and Murrays were Presbyterians, as are most of their descendants now living, although it is probable that most of the large and respectable branch, the Harbisons, are United Presbyterians. My own opinion is that this is a distinction without much difference. Almost as soon as our people had settled in Butler County they provided a place for public worship. They obtained the title to several acres of woodland; did not wait for the building of a house, but in fair weather gathered in the grove. The pulpit was a log or stump, the people disposing themselves as best they could in front of the minister. Before long they erected what was called a tent, but was nothing more than a pulpit. It was built by setting up posts, covering three sides and roof with clapboards. The floor was made of puncheons—split logs hewed. In front were puncheon seats in sufficient numbers to seat the people.

The first church building was of logs and stood just in front of the present brick building. The second building stood near the southeast corner of the present churchyard. It was built of hewed timbers. I am not sure, but think it was wainscoted. The pulpit was a box affair; when the minister sat down he was out of sight of the congregation. The pews were of a rather good style. It would not have been very difficult to make one small boy, at least, believe after sitting for two hours of a hot Sunday afternoon, that they were made of hard wood. But they were really made of pine, brought in the rough from Pittsburgh. The inside finish showed the good, honest work of the carpenter and joiner. The present brick building was erected in 1842. It has been kept in good repair and there is no good reason why it will not last for another 63 years. The inside work was done by that prince of mechanics, William McCamish Brown, of Pittsburgh. He was assisted by an other good mechanic, who I think was Captain George Hays, grandson of George Hays already referred to.

There has always been connected with the church a churchyard. It is now a beautiful burial place and kept in good repair.

Last of all is the grand old spring under the giant trees, which has given freely of its refreshing waters to seven generations of worshippers. It allures the traveler from the pike nearby to stop beneath the trees and rest and be refreshed.

There is not one, whose name is recorded in this compilation, but that should feel an interest in the history of our grand old Middlesex Presbyterian Church.

THE COMPILATION.

When we began the work of gathering these records the writer knew of but few of the decendants except those of his own grandfather. Many of our people realized that after the passing of the fourth generation, nearly all of the memorials of the first, second and third would be buried in oblivion. Most of the decendants then living had gone to the West. For many years back there have been but three of the fourth generation living east of Illinois. Now there are but two, (Mrs. Sarah Ann Brown Jeffery and myself); so that when the compilation was commenced the task seemed a light one. When we found that the decendants of George Brown, Christiana Brown and Anna Brown had to be reckoned with, we were enlightened, and began to realize the difficulties we were bound to meet. At that time I could not have named a single living member of either of the three branches. With a very few exceptions they knew nothing of me. It was evident that as long as this was the state of affairs nothing could be accomplished, so some kind of acquaintance had to be formed. I have thought all along and still think, that all of the Browns, as well as myself, have one friend who quietly removed the first difficulty, by vouching for both parties. Let us all, then, recognize our obligations to Miss Hannah Potts of Glade Mills, Butler County, Pa. She also knew more of the collateral branch, the McCaslins, than any one of them did, and never hesitated to assist in every possible way.

It is not making invidious distinctions to say that greater amount of assistance came from the few rather than from the many. It is but justice to those that gave so much of their time and labor through the years without hope of reward, so that a compilation record could be made of all of our people, that their names should be a part of this prefatory. Without a single one of them knowing of my intention, their names are given in the order they appear on the line, as follows:

George W. Mahood, Mary Ann Thompson Henry, Leslie Fulton, James G. Maxwell, Mary Ellen Evans McBride, Mary Ellen Leasure Harbison, Laura Kinzer Bott, Sarah Ann Cox Harbison, Margaret Eleanor Harbison Love, Eleanor Young Harbison Linn, John Diller Harbison, George Harbison, Margaretta Harbison Miller, Mary Hannah Harbison, William Harbison Cowan, John Cowan, James Dean Harbison, John Scott Harbison, John McClain Brown, Sarah Elizabeth Brown Thompson, Robert Reed Brown, Elizabeth Agnes Brown, Eliza Dell Brown, Mary Ann Brown McMillan, Samuel Jennings Wilson Brown, Harriet Morrison Brown, Mary McNeil Brown Curran, Mary Ann Brown, Lauretta Atwilda Lyon Maxwell, William Creighton White, Anna Mae White Dovenspike, William Harrison Taylor (fifth generation,) Sarah Ann Brown Jeffery, Samuel Barber Brown, Adaline Douglas Cochran, Doctor William Alfred McCaslin, Thomas Andrew McCaslin, Laura Elizabeth McCaslin Harrison, James McCaslin, Hannah Martindale McCaslin, Martin McCaslin, George H. McCaslin, Emma May McCaslin, George Elmer Stout, Elizabeth Burns McCaslin Pettitt, Angeline McCaslin Harris, Maude Blanche Muse, Alma Elizabeth Murray, John Weir Murray, John Nelson Fulton, Mary Catherine Murray Neil, Jeanette Cordelia Murray Barrett, Rachel Matilda Patton, Isabella Patton Welty, Lucie May Murray Kunkle, Elizabeth Martha Hunter Barnett, Margaret Jane Hunter Hamilton, Doctor Robert Law Cunningham.

There are a few families whose records are incomplete. For reasons we cannot understand, no response has been made to our urgent and insistent appeals for their records. The pleasant thought occurs that in all of the vast correspondence and intercourse with our people not an unkind word has been written or spoken. It is now about eight years since we began gathering records. Most of that time we have been waiting for the spirit, or something else, to move slow correspondents. But we must remember that many of our people are busy with the affairs of the home or their every day employment, and have but little time to devote to other matters; so let patience still do its perfect work. We all have more things to be thankful for than we have to complain of.

I am very much disposed to hold my active assistants responsible for the picture. Otherwise I might be charged with vanity, which can scarcely be called a virtue. Their argument was that I had formed a large acquaintance through correspondence with individuals who could not expect to meet me, and that the picture would gratify a natural curiosity.

OUR SOLDIERS.

Generation.

Fourth. Robert Thompson, soldier of the War of 1812. Enlisted March, 1812, in Butler County, Pa. Was appointed captain. They joined a brigade of Beaver County, Pa., under General McCully. Captain Thompson took command of the division and held that position until the close of the War. On the way home he was taken ill, but swam the river Reason and reached an inn, where an attack of the measles kept him for two months. He was born March 17, 1792, died July 21, 1880.

Fifth. John Glass Thompson, son of Captain Robert Thompson, was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in Buckskin Joe, Colorado. Mustered into service December 14, 1861, for three years' term. Discharged December 19, 1864, at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. While he was a private in Company B, Second Colorado Cavalry Volunteers, he was in the following engagements: Valvedera, New Mexico; Albuquerque, New Mexico; Peralta on the Rio Grande, New Mexico; Pigeon Ranche, New Mexico; Badger Creek, Indian Nation; Little Blue Independence, Missouri; Big Blue, near Kansas City; McGee's Farm, Mount Pleasant, Kansas; Newtonia, Arkansas. He was badly wounded at Valverda, New Mexico. The remainder of the summer of 1863 was hunting and fighting "bushwhackers" in Kansas City and vicinity. While chasing them he was wounded. Previously he had been wounded at Little Blue, by a piece of flying shell. He married August 30, 1869, Anna Maria Hufford. Their post office address is Shonce, Johnston County, Kansas.

Fifth. Robert W. Thompson, son of Captain Robert Thompson. Enlisted June 14, 1861, in Company D, 40th Pennsylvania Infantry. Was later transferred to Company D, 11th Pennsylvania Reserve Corps, and was honorably discharged on the 13th of June, 1864, at expiration of his term of service.

Joseph McCullough Henry, husband of Mary Ann, daughter of Captain Robert Thompson, to whom the compiler is greatly indebted for her untiring and successful labors in gathering not only the records of the Thompson branch, but of several others. He was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in 1863, in the 153rd Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, for three months' service. At the end of that term they were discharged at Harrisburg, Pa. He then enlisted for three years in Battery G, Light Artillery, served until the close of the War, and was honorably discharged at Harrisburg, Pa., June 5, 1865.

- Fifth. Joseph Morrison Brown, was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted while living in Michigan. After a short time of service he was taken ill with what was called quick consumption and died August 1, 1862.
- Fifth. Samuel Brown, was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Member of Company G, 10th Pennsylvania Reserves. Died at Dayton, Ohio, April 17, 1881, and was buried with military honors.
- Fifth. Robert John Brown, was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Taken prisoner at the Battle of the Wilderness, sent to Andersonville. Moved to Florence, South Carolina, and died there.
- Fifth. Samuel Thompson Fulton, a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in the 212th Regiment, Pennsylvania Independent Battery. He was born June 7, 1837, died February 16, 1892.
- Fifth. Leslie Fulton, was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in the 212th Regiment, Independent Battery of Pennsylvania.
- Sixth. Thompson Smalley Fulton, born October 22, 1876. Was a soldier of the Phillippine War.
- Fifth. Samuel Maxwell, a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in the 14th Pennsylvania Cavalry, was captured three weeks later and sent to Andersonville prison, October 14, 1864. His sister, Mrs. Houge, says he was starved to death.

- Fifth. Robert McBride, was a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted October 14, 1861, at Pittsburgh. Discharged on account of wounds received in battle, January 17, 1863. Served in Company M, 6th United States Cavalry. Fought in the following battles: Bull Run, Manassah, Soudon Valley, Cedar Creek, Gordonsville. Returned to Alexandria, from there to Fortress Monroe, thence up the peninsula; fought at Yorktown and lastly at Williamsburg, where he received a wound in the right thigh. The ball never has been extracted.
- Fifth. James Thompson Purvis, a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted May 1, 1864, as private in Knapp's Battery. Discharged September 3, 1864.
- Fifth. John McClain Brown, a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Mustered into the United States service in Company L, 14th Pennsylvania Cavalry Volunteers, October 27, 1862. Served with the Regiment in Averill's Brigade in the Shenandoah Valley and West Virginia, until the close of the War. Sent to Leavenworth in June, 1865, to Pittsburgh in September, 1865. Honorably discharged as farrier of Company E, 14th Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, on September 6th, 1865.
- Fifth. Peter Peterson Brown, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted April 20, 1861, in Company H, 13th Pennsylvania Volunteers, for three months' service. Discharged August 1, 1861. Reenlisted August 20, 1862, as private in Company C, 134th Pennsylvania Volunteers. Promoted to 1st Sergeant. Skull fractured at Fredericksburg, by a minnie ball. Discharged May 26, 1863. Reenlisted February 15th, 1864, as private in Company L, 14th Pennsylvania Cavalry. Promoted to first duty Sergeant. Was in sixteen battles. Discharged September 5th, 1865.
- Fifth. Samuel Elliott Brown, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted June, 1862, in Company G, 62nd Volunteers, as private; was transferred to 155th Pennsylvania Volunteers in July, 1864. Served until June, 1865. Discharged on final order at close of the War. He died May 19, 1891.

- Seventh. Howard Alonzo Acre, soldier of the War with Spain. Enlisted in Company F, 8th Regiment United States Infantry. Died in Havana, Cuba, January 22, 1900.
- Fifth. John Diller Harbison, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in the 13th Pennsylvania Regiment, for three months' service. Reinlisted in the 134th Pennsylvania Regiment. Was discharged in August, 1863.
- Fifth. James Thompson Harbison, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted for three months' service in the 13th Pennsylvania Regiment. Reinlisted in the 134th Pennsylvania Regiment. Discharged August, 1863.
- Fifth. George Harbison, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in February, 1863, in Battery L, Second Artillery, 9th Corps. Transferred to 18th Corps. In battle of the Wilderness, North Ann River, Spottsylvania, Coal Harbor, Petersburg, and Chapins. Wounded and captured. Prisoner at Belle Island and Libby. Discharged May 16, 1865.
- Fifth. Mathew Linn Harbison, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted August 1, 1862, in Company D, 139th Infantry of Pennsylvania. Participated in most of the battles of the Army of the Potomac. Was honorably discharged June, 1865.
- Fifth. William H. Cowan, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in Company H, Captain McLaughlin, 102nd Regiment, Colonel F. H. Collier. Among the engagements he was in were Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Savage Station, and was wounded in the battle of Malvern Hill.
- Fifth. John Cowan, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted at the commencement of the War in the 139th Regiment, Colonel F. H. Collier. Fought in most of the battles of the Army of the Potomac. Was wounded in the knee by a ball which is causing him a good deal of suffering now, 1905.
- Third. Robert Brown, a soldier of the Black Hawk War. The sword he carried was used by his son, William McCamish Brown, of Pittsburgh, Pa., in drilling a company for enlistment in the War of the Rebellion.

Fifth. George Moore Petty, a soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted August 22, 1862, in Company G, 15th Pennsylvania Cavalry. Participated in the battles of Antietam, Stone River and Chickamauga, besides many small engagements. Mustered out of service, June 16, 1865.

Fourth. Howard Brown White, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted September, 1862, in the 104th Regiment, Illinois Infantry. He with a schoolmate who fought by his side, were killed in the battle of Huntsville, December 7, 1862. He was buried at Hartsville, Tennessee. The Regiment was attacked by the Confederates under John Morgan. Forty-four were killed and 150 wounded. He was but 22 years of age when he enlisted, and was killed three months later.

Fifth. Samuel Addison Lyon, volunteer soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in Company D, 11th Reserve Corps, Pennsylvania Reserves. Mustered into service July 29th, 1861, at Washington City. Was a prisoner of war at Belle Island. Fought in the engagements of Mechanicsville, June 26, 1862; Gaines Mills, June 27, 1862; Charles City Roads, June 30, 1862; Bull Run, August 28, 29, 30. Killed in battle August 30, 1862.

Fifth. James Douglass, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in 1862, in the 35th Iowa Infantry, Colonel Hill, Company G, Captain Dixon. Fought in the battles of Fort Gibson, Black River, Vicksburg, Jackson, Miss. Regiment sent to relief of General Banks at Red River. Transferred to Nashville; fought in battle between Thomas and Hood. Sent to hospital at Memphis; furloughed home in March, 1865, died March 31, 1865. Is buried at Fairview Churchyard, near his Iowa home.

Fourth. George Brown McCaslin, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in the 100th Pennsylvania Regiment—Roundheads. Died 1863, in hospital, from wounds received in battle.

Fifth. William Henry McCaslin, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Entering the army at the commencement of the War, he served until the close. He was a member of Colonel Ellsworth Regiment.

- Fifth. Lewis Davidson Harris, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. He is the husband of Angeline McCaslin Harris, to whom the compiler is greatly indebted for her untiring and successful efforts in gathering many family records of her branch of the Brown decendants. Mr. Harris enlisted in Company K, 10th New Jersey Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, 6th Corps. Served three years. Among the battles in which he fought were Coal Harbor, the Wilderness, Antietam and many small engagements.
- Second. Neil Murray, was a soldier of the War of 1812, and captain of a company of volunteers. Owing to the fact that his old home with all of its contents was burned, we have no records. It is quite probable that he was in the War of the Revolution.
- Third. William Murray, soldier of the War of 1812. On the march to or from Erie, Pa., the soldiers camped near a river or creek. Noticing oil on the waters they spread their blankets on the water, the oil adhering to them. Rinsing them into vessels they obtained an oil which the Indians, and afterwards the whites used as a medicine. I think it then was called seneca oil. Similar oil is now known as petroleum. We do not now know whether William was in his father's (Neil) company or not. It would seem probable he was.
- Fourth. David Murray, soldier of the Mexican War. Was a member of Jefferson Davis' Regiment of Mississippi Riflemen. From this incident we assume that he lived in Mississippi previous to the Mexican War—1846. At least he made his home in that state during the remainder of his days. He was not in either army during the Rebellion. He was in principal a Union man and lost property during the War. The compiler is indebted to Mrs. Hamilton of Edgewood Park, Pa., for the very full record of this Southern family, which difficult work she accomplished with the assistance of her relative, Miss Alma Elizabeth Murray, of Rosetta, Miss.
- Fifth. John Wier Murray, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Served three years in the Union Army, first in 9th Regiment Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, later as hospital stewart in the Regular Army.

- Fifth. William Murray, served in the 9th Regiment, Minnesota Volunteer Infantry; got hurt and was discharged the first year of enlistment. Partially recovered, applied again for the privilege of enlistment, but it was decided that he was permanently injured. He died in 1864.
- Fifth. Harvy E. Scott, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Served three years in the 1st Minnesota Volunteer Infantry. A part of the regiment made a stand at Gettysburg, against Pickett's Brigade; in a few minutes scarcely a man was left standing. Mr. Scott was among the wounded.

Was discharged July 8, 1899; reinlisted in the 36th Volunteer Infantry, afterwards transferred to the 37th.

Fourth. John Moore, private in Company E, 54th Regiment, Pennsylvania Militia. Called into the service of the State at Camp Howe, Pittsburgh, Pa., June 30, 1863, by the Governor for the term of 90 days from the time of enlistment, unless sooner discharged. Took part in the capture of Morgan. Discharged August 17, 1863, at Camp Brooks.

Sixth. Francis Anderson Murray, soldier of the Regular Army.

Fourth. Neil Murray, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted in Company E, 14th Iowa Infantry Volunteers, at Vandalia, Iowa; was commissioned Second Lieutenant thereof November 4, 1861; served until about September, 1862, when he resigned to accept a commission from Governor Kirkwood of Iowa to recruit a volunteer company of infantry; raised about one-half of a company, then consolidated with Doctor Ault of Newton, Iowa; September 10, 1862, was commissioned First Lieutenant in Company C, 22nd Iowa Volunteer Infantry. Was honorably discharged from the service.

Fifth. William Finley Barnett, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted September 7, 1861, Company C, 19th Ohio Infantry. Mustered out October 8, 1864. Was in the following engagements: Shiloh, Stone River, Corinth, Chickamauga, Jonesborough, Atlanta and a number of smaller engagements.

Sixth. William C. Hunter, soldier of the Phillippine War. Enlisted at Pittsburgh, Pa., October 13, 1900; was sent as an unsigned recruit to Fort Wood, New York Harbor, from there, in company with about 400 other soldiers sailed for Manilla on November 7, 1900, on the U. S. Transport Buford, by way of Giberalter and the Suez Canal; arriving at Manilla December 29, 1900, he was assigned to Company C, 21st Infantry, then stationed at Cavitte Province, Phillippine Islands; was in the following engagements and skirmishes: San Antonia, Sanguna Province, January 28, 1901. Canvantia, Sanguna, February 16, 1901; Mount Marabolo, September 10, 1901, where the regiment suffered considerable loss; Tiason, Botangas Province, night of January 1, 1902; Sipt Mountain, April 8, 1902; served through General Bell's campaign in Botangas Province from December 20, 1901, until Malvas surrendered, April 16, 1902. This ended the insurrection in Southern Luzon. William C. Hunter was in the Phillippines 16 months. The regiment was ordered home; sailed May 6, 1902, on the Transport Meade; stopped four days at Nagaskia, Japan, arriving at San Francisco June 1, where he remained until June 10; took train for Fort Snelling, Minnesota, arriving there on June 16; was discharged at this fort October 12, 1903; reinlisted October 22, 1903, at Pittsburgh, Pa., for the 5th Infantry; was sent to Plattsburgh Barracks, where he is now (July, 1905) serving.

Fourth. John Murray, Lancaster, Kansas, soldier of the War of the Rebellion.

Fourth. Robert Murray, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted August 6, 1861, Company H, 63rd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. Fought in the following engagements: Pohich Church, Yorktown, Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Oak Grove, Glendale, Malvern Hill, Kettle Run, Groveton, Second Bull Run, Chantily, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Wapping Heights, Auburn, Kelley's Ford, Mine Run, Wilderness, Spottsylvania, North Ann, Totopomy, Cold Harbor; wounded June 19th, 1864, by a ball which went through his head, when in front of Petersburg; died from wound June 22, 1864. A typical American soldier. He is buried in National Cemetery, City Point, Virginia.

Fourth. Joseph E. Murray, soldier of the War of the Rebellion. Enlisted September 6, 1862, in Company C, 14th Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry. Discharged May 30, 1865. Participated in all of the battles in which the regiment was engaged. He was one of 30 men chosen by Captain Harry Wakefield in 1864, for scouting service and was thus engaged for about three months, or until General Averill was relieved from command of the division. The regiment lost more men than any of the 22 cavalry regiments from the State of Pennsylvania.

THE FORM.

After experimenting with many forms we found the one adopted to best suit our purpose. The real basis is the second generation. The individuals of that generation in order of birth were, George Brown, William Brown, Christiana Brown, Margaret Brown and Anna Brown. Margaret, having no children, does not appear again on the line of decent. But there is always compensation. She was the beloved Auntie Barber of her nephews and nieces of the third generation. It will then be noticed that each individual decendant has one of these four for his or her ancestor. First on the line will appear the names of William Brown and Christiana Thompson Brown, second the names of George Brown and Mary Glass Brown. Following on down to and including the eighth generation, without a brake, will be all of their decendants. The decent of his one brother and two sisters will be in the same order. The index will give the names of only the first, second, third, fourth and fifth generations. A little familiarity with the form and scope of the whole compilation will enable any one to find quickly any name desired. It is possible that errors in dates or names will be found. If so, I would suggest that each possessor of the work make corrections with pen and ink, so that no great harm will ensue. In the book there are blank forms for births, names, marriages and deaths. I noticed with regret that individual family records were not kept with the care the importance of them requires. It is a grave mistake not to give the record of children who died at or soon after birth.

It is essential to give month, date of month, and year, of birth, marriage and death. There will be many blanks found in the compilation for the sole reason that no record could be found.

We have now finished. The printer awaits the manuscript. We have done what we can as well as we can. We make but one request—that you make by correspondence, visits or otherwise, the acquaintance of your relatives. Do not esteem other people's as you would your own relations—they are not the same. You might as well say that other people's brothers or sisters were the same to you as your own. I, myself, like to make pleasant social friends of all good people; but, when sickness and death had entered our home, it was our relatives who came to us in haste, to comfort and sympathize and help.
